The text is not in English, it is in Burmese. However, without understanding the specific content, it's hard to provide a natural text representation. The document appears to be a notification or letter related to Ell (Educational Language Learners). It mentions dates, times, and addresses, and includes a table with checkboxes and notes in Burmese script. The content is likely related to education or language learning programs.