NYU Steinhardt Friends of Art

Scholarships for the next generation of young artists

The NYU Steinhardt Friends of Art program was formed to enable exceptional young artists to attend NYU Steinhardt's Art Programs. Friends of Art contribute $5,000 or more a year to the Friends of Art Scholarships, which provide direct funding for outstanding students who would not otherwise be able to finance their dream of studying art at NYU. In recognition, patrons are invited to share in the extraordinary energy of the program with events celebrating the faculty and students.

NYU Steinhardt has emerged as one of the most innovative studio art programs in the country, combining the vibrant energy of downtown New York with the intellectual resources and global reach of a great research university. Students also benefit from NYU's renowned global education network which sends students to sites in Berlin, Accra, Shanghai, Florence, Prague, Madrid, and more.

Art department alumni range from Ross Bleckner and Joel Shapiro to Carol Bove and Nate Lowman. Current faculty include Sue De Beer, Jesse Bransford, Trisha Donnelly, Peter Campus, Maureen Gallace, RoseLee Goldberg, Lyle Ashton Harris, Kevin McCoy, Paul Pfeiffer, Jack Pierson, Adam Putnam, Gerry Pryor, Aida Ruilova, Kiki Smith, Judith Schwartz, and John Torreano.

As the next generation of young artists, our students create work that will both reflect and shape the world to come. Please help us to support them by becoming a Friend of Art.
