

THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 2014 • 6 PM – 8 PM
A/P/A INSTITUTE AT NYU • 8 WASHINGTON MEWS

Image by Susan G. Monden:
printed in June Gutmanis's Kahuna La'au Lapa'au:
The Practice of Hawaiian Herbal Medicine (1976).

the Asian/Pacific/American Institute at NYU presents
system + taste:
food in postcolonial Hawai'i curated by Hi'ilei Julia Hobart

How do colonial histories shape today's sustainable food systems? In this panel discussion with Kaori O'Connor, Amy Bentley, and Ashley Lukens, Hawai'i serves as a case study for understanding the parameters of indigenous and settler foodscapes and offers interdisciplinary perspectives on this complex issue.

Co-sponsored by Department of Nutrition, Food Studies, and Public Health in NYU's Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development.

RSVP at www.apa.nyu.edu/events or (212) 992 9653