Making New York City’s Public Schools Broader, Bolder, and More Equitable:
A Joint CEE/BBA Education Policy Event

Tuesday, March 27, 5:00 – 7:30 pm
Salome Urena de Henriquez Campus
A NYDOE-Children's Aid Society Community School
4600 Broadway (at 196th Street), Washington Heights

With New York City education policy at a critical juncture, the Campaign for Educational Equity, Teachers College, Columbia University and the Broader Bolder Approach to education invite you to a panel discussion on changes to promote an equitable and comprehensive approach to education. Leaders from CEE and BBA will join NYC officials to hone in on the economics and implementation details of how this comprehensive approach can be adopted on a large-scale basis in NYC. The event is being held at a NYDOE-Children’s Aid Society Community School that exemplifies the broader, bolder approach advocated.

5:00 pm  Parent-catered reception for panelists and audience
6:00 pm  Panel discussion

Panelists:
- Pedro Noguera, Peter L. Agnew Professor of Education, Steinhart School of Education, Culture, and Human Development, New York University, and co-chair, BBA
- Michael Rebell, Executive Director, Campaign for Educational Equity and Professor of Law and Educational Practice, Teachers College, Columbia University
- Scott Stringer, Manhattan Borough President
- Shael Suransky, Deputy Chancellor, New York City Department of Education

For more information, contact Sara Peters at slp2142@tc.columbia.edu, or Elaine Weiss at eweiss@boldapproach.org.