In a little over a month’s time, we will be in the midst of ceremonies, rituals and celebrations marking the academic achievements of both undergraduate and graduate students in the Class of 2007. They will be the first to graduate and receive diplomas carrying our new School name, NYU Steinhardt School of Culture, Education and Human Development.

Around the same time, we will be planning activities and events that come together as traditions for welcoming new students who will begin their studies in September. If you intend to enroll for summer study and/or resume your studies in the fall, it is time also to meet with your advisors to discuss your academic progress and your next semester’s class schedule. How is your own educational planning moving you closer to your career goals? Are there academic options that can further enrich your academic experience? Remember to use your Advisement Worksheet at www.steinhardt.nyu.edu/studentaffairs.

Take the Challenge, Take Charge, and Work It Out! Take advantage of the many opportunities noted in the following pages to enhance your academics and promote personal growth and development. Be involved! Stay informed! Visit our website frequently.

Best wishes on final projects and examinations. Please drop by our office and/or email us at steinhardt.student.matters@nyu.edu; we’d like to know how you are doing and be of assistance in the ways that we can.

— Patricia M. Carey

3rd Annual GSO Star Awards

Dear Steinhardt Community:

Do you know students, administrators and faculty who have positively influenced the graduate student experience through academic excellence, leadership, community service or expression of talents? The Graduate Student Organization (GSO) invites you to submit nominations for the GSO Star Awards electronically by Friday, April 6th at 5PM to steinhardt.gso@nyu.edu. Please write “GSO Star Award” in the subject line.

Senior Legacy
The Senior Class Legacy Program is a giving tradition at NYU that offers graduating seniors the opportunity to leave a lasting mark on NYU. By making a donation to the Senior Class Legacy Program, your gift benefits current and future students at Steinhardt and NYU. Your initial donation will help raise money for the Steinhardt Student Emergency Fund. President Sexton will match the Senior Legacy funds to support the university-wide senior class gift.
