Who is a refugee?

According to Article One of the 1951 Geneva Convention, a refugee is a person who:

- is outside his or her country of nationality or habitual residence;
- has a well-founded fear of persecution because of his or her race, religion, nationality, membership of a particular social group or political opinion;
- and is unable or unwilling to avail himself or herself of the protection of that country, or to return there for fear of prosecution.
Refugees in the United States

- The U.S. has received nearly 3 million resettled refugees since 1975.
  - Vietnamese in the 70’s – 80’s
  - Russians after the end of the Cold War
- The new resettlement program began to offer resettlement to over 50 nationalities per year & Burmese are the newest refugees to arrive in the US.

Since the 1988 political upheaval, Myanmar is undergoing an unsettled period.

Many people from Myanmar (especially the Eastern part of the country) have crossed over the border into Thailand.

Over a 150,000 refugees from Myanmar are still believed to be in the camps in Thailand.
Who are the Myanmar Refugees?

- Many are from the different ethnic groups Kachin, Chin, Kayin (Karen), Kayinni (Kayah) and Mon.

- Kayin (Karens), Kayinni (Kayahs) are the largest ethnic groups to be resettled in the United States.
Myanmar Refugees in the U.S.

- The International Organization for Migration recently issued information regarding Myanmar in the refugee camps as follows:
  - from 2004 – 2008, the United States has resettled over 64,000 refugees from Myanmar;
  - in 2008, the United States offered to resettle as many as 50,000 refugees.
The New Immigrants in the United States

- Except for Alaska, Myanmar refugees have resettled all over the United States.

- Karens are the largest group among the refugees.
  - In Bakersfield, California, there are about 20,000 Karens.
  - Approximately 4,000 Karens are in St Paul, Minnesota and Fort Wayne, Indiana.
  - Approximately 3,500 Karens are in Atlanta, Georgia, and Chapel Hill, South Carolina.

Issues & Problems Faced in New Homeland

☐ Resettlement is a long & complicated process.
☐ Resettlement changes life.
☐ Refugees, upon arrival in new homeland, immediately face cultural adjustment and changing roles.
☐ Resettlement agencies help with housing, employment, health care, education, money management, but cultural shock & stress is immense.
☐ Family, sibling separation and adapting to a new environment and culture.
Similar to other immigrant groups

- Language difficulties
- Generation gap in terms of acculturation
Unique issues

- May have ethnic conflicts within the same language group
- Diaspora and breakup of the traditional nuclear families
- Low literacy level in the Karen/Red Karen language
Losing one’s temper in front of others is a serious matter to be avoided at all costs. A loss of control means a loss of respect of the community.

There are no secrets in village life and a village mentality is likely to have transferred to the U.S. Expect anything anyone does or says to be known.

Sharing and hospitality in the tribal culture is a tradition.
Ethnic Cultural Tips & Trends

☐ Do not step over anything or anybody.

☐ Do not pass things over another person sitting on the floor, including any part of the body.

☐ Avoid walking in front of any person even in meetings and homes. If you have to walk in front, the head is lowered and the right hand is extended to make a path. Say excuse me.

☐ Do not walk between two talking people. To do so means to have walked in front of the faces of everyone.
More Tips On Ethnic Culture

- The right hand is used to give things.
- Public display of affection is frowned upon. Married couples also do not display signs of affection.
- Relationship between people is considered more important than time. Making and sticking to schedule is difficult.
- Life is taken as it happens. Making long range plans and setting goals are new aspects and concepts.
Karen/ Red Karen refugees do find U.S. education bewildering e.g. compulsory education and strict attendance

Adults and language communication problems, issues – parental involvement in education

Most hard hitting is the new relationship between parents/elders and children
- Children as interpreters for adults
- Interdependent yet challenging relationships

Cultural differences- food, beliefs are widened
