Teaching Excellence Award: Selection Procedures

I. Criteria for Selection

The awards will be based upon the abilities of each nominee in the following areas:

1. Teaching

- a. To translate what a faculty member does as innovation in research, practice, or artistic production to one's classroom or field setting in terms of knowledge and passion.
- b. To motivate and affect student development and growth through diverse and inspiring teaching methods.
- c. To apply one's knowledge of the field and how it relates to students in a way that is current and appropriate.
- d. To be sensitive to diverse teaching and learning needs including cultural diversity and an effective use of technology.

2. Advisement and Mentoring

- a. To read individual students' strengths and weaknesses so that the faculty member can offer sound advice in order to have the student achieve at a high level.
- b. To be knowledgeable of other courses available and the workings of the university to satisfy student needs and issues.
- c. To guide students for career and education possibilities based on the contemporary state of one's discipline.

3. Human Interchange

- a. To motivate and effect change in students.
- b. To interrelate on a personal level and with a respectful manner.
- c. To work with students, colleagues and alumni.

 Criteria 2(a) and 3(c) apply only to full-time faculty nominees.

II. Eligibility

1. Open to both part-time and full-time faculty members.
2. Must have taught at Steinhardt for at least 5 years.
3. If a faculty member has won an award in the past, they are ineligible for another award (same as with the research award).
4. If an adjunct teaches courses in both Steinhardt and another NYU division, that faculty member would be eligible for the adjunct award, unless they have some kind of formal affiliation with the other division.

III. Procedures

1. The Dean will initiate the formation of the selection committee of four faculty members, representing the three areas of teaching in the School, one adjunct faculty member, 4 students (2 undergraduate and 2 graduate) and one member of the administration chosen by the Dean, and convene the first meeting early each year.
2. The Committee will solicit nominations (no self-nomination allowed) and letters and statements of support from faculty, students, alumni and administrators.
3. The faculty member who is nominated will be notified. As part of the selection process, the committee will request a portfolio. The portfolio will contain a curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy (up to 3 pages), summary of student course evaluations of the past three years (up to 3 pages), other supporting materials for the criteria listed including publications or classroom handouts such as syllabi and other materials which reflect upon the activities in the faculty member's classes (up to 7 pages).
4. Nominations are due no later than March 26, 2013 with notification given to the nominees by March 28, 2013. The nominees will then have two weeks to submit supporting materials to the selection committee, due no later than April 11, 2013.
5. The Committee will review the material submitted no later than April 18, 2013 and recommend the nominees for The Steinhardt School of Education Teaching Excellence of the Year Awards and report them to the Dean.
