This panel discussion will center on how the historical and contemporary racial makeup of the teaching force impacts teaching and learning. Panelists will include educators, artists, and activists who will engage in a rich dialogue that will leave you thinking about your own role in the liberation of our young people.

For educators, social workers, counselors, parents, and anyone with contact and influence over our young people.

Register here!
For more information, please contact CSS Director, Natalie McCabe Zwerger at nz11@nyu.edu

Tuesday, May 7th, 2019
NYU Kimball Hall
246 Greene Street
New York, NY 10003
First Floor Lounge
5-7:30PM
Light snacks will be provided.
$10